

There are lots of beautiful lanterns hanging, with a deep blue night sky in the background. Since there aren't many visitors, the lanterns are quite dim or they won't be lit at all.

As there are more and more visitors, the lanterns will be gradually lit up and the color of the sky brighter.

If the ambient light is bright enough, you can see where other users are on the page, represented by a small human figure.

By clicking on other people, the lanterns will be brighter and start to blink, so the lanterns here really represent the interaction through the internet.
